What is the Right Door for the opening?

We understand the different needs of every door opening. We’ll help you recognize issues of durability for those high traffic areas, considerations of functionality for the given space, and the style demanded by your design and the aesthetics of the environment.
MDF

MDF (Medium Density Fiberboard) is a smart choice for many of your interior door needs. Not only are MDF doors stable, durable and environmentally friendly, but our super-refined MDF doors provide a remarkably smooth finish and outperform natural wood doors for painted applications.

Because of their homogenous construction, MDF doors are more durable and resist warping, cracking and splitting. MDF allows us to build more stable and architecturally correct doors and details.

MDF is an engineered wood product made from recycled and recovered wood fiber. Rest assured, we do not fill our MDF products with cheaper core materials (like many alternatives), and we never use low density fiberboard.

We include a poplar wood edge on both vertical stiles, to increase the screw holding strength of your hinges and locks. We can also put a wood edge in your top rail for barn door applications.

Wood

Interior wood doors can add that extra touch of aesthetic distinction. Your choice of wood will determine such features as texture, grain, knots as well as overall color intent.

Our solid-core, architectural wood doors are durable enough to stay beautiful even under frequent use. You can select various surface materials, including stainable and paintable, to best suit your design vision.

Majority of our door styles can be produced in a variety of wood species.

Fire-Rated Doors

You can focus on a proper fire protection system and your design vision when selecting one of our fire-rated doors. Most of our door designs are available in fire ratings of 20-, 45-, 60- and 90-minutes. Each are is carefully designed to match any of our non-rated doors, providing you architectural consistency and peace of mind.

Stile & Rail

Our stile and rail doors allow us to craft virtually any style of door, while bringing a high level of craftsmanship and quality to our clients. With meticulous construction and the use of premium materials (that exceed industry standards), our stile and rail doors provide sharper corners, better depth and more stability than other comparable doors.
Panel Doors

The distinctive look of every panel door we manufacture is in the profile. The door profile is defined by the joints where the sticking and panels come together and the styles of each. Fortunately, we offer over 45 combinations of sticking and panel styles, so you can achieve the perfect profile look for your project. If not, we will be happy to help you through the process to create a custom solution.

Each of our panel doors are built with authentic stile-and-rail construction for architecturally correct results. You can choose from diverse panel door styles in configurations from one to nine panels.
Sticking Options

Sticking is the pattern cut into the interior edges of every stile and rail – and is an essential component in your door’s overall design. Stiles and rails are the vertical and horizontal wood pieces that create the frame of a panel door.

Panel Options

We offer various panel styles that work with the sticking to complete the style of your door’s distinctive profile. You can work with our experts to find a profile that is both unique, attractive and matches your planned design aesthetic.

Custom Flush Doors

Our flush modern doors offer a sturdy, functional option for certain applications and aesthetic needs. Every one of our flush doors are engineered to resist warping and twisting. You can select from a wide variety of wood species or paint grade MDF to finish out your flush door. Depending on the size, most of our flush doors can be quite heavy. To reduce the weight, you can choose to add a tubular core, which reduces the weight but maintains the structural stability. For extremely large doors, inquire about our aluminum honeycomb construction.
